INTRODUCTION

The universally adopted AS9100 Quality Management Systems for the Aerospace Industry standard covers the entire aerospace industry supply chain, including companies that design and manufacture equipment, supply accessories or replacement parts, and offer supply and maintenance or overhaul and repair services.

A number of related standards have been developed to address sectors within this industry, and AS9120 is the Quality Management System standard that relates to aerospace supplier evaluation. The AS9120 standard addresses the providers of aerospace stocklists, or pass-through distributors who are reselling, distributing and warehousing aircraft and aerospace components. An AS9120 certificate demonstrates to your partners in the aerospace industry that you understand the standard,
